NEW ALBUM: TIME COMING NOVEMBER 2020

As they gear up to release their fifth studio release, Time, in November 2020, folk artists Kyra and Tully are giving their audience a taste of what's to come: beginning in February 2020, the Kingston-based husband-and-wife duo will be releasing one single per month until the album's formal launch.

The album's 11 original songs span more than two decades, spanning the period from before the pair had met, to songs written more recently. They are songs filled with heartfelt voices and plenty of harmonies woven in orchestral instrumentation. The lyrics, which explore everything from the joys and challenges of parenting to the delights of nature, also acknowledge a shared humanity.

Time was recorded at Leopard Frog Studio, in Battersea, Ontario by co-producer and engineer Chris Coleman (Nightsun, Nuvu Music), who also did some of the mixing at his studio in Iqaluit, Nunavut. From May to November, 2019, Kyra and Tully and their musical friends continued to add to the album, working on it between stays in a cabin nestled in the woods on a 100-acre bio dynamic farm and travels in Europe.

A transformative musical journey, Time is inspired by the changing weather of the seasons, exploring inner and outer landscapes, is at once self-reflective and observing of the wider world. With the album, both Kyra and Tully seek to share the gift of their music and its present, all through Time.

PRAISE FOR KYRA AND TULLY

"Everyone should get to hear this sweet and truthful music." -- Bruce Cockburn, MUSICIAN

"... the Kingston, ON couples melodies also contain a trace of wistful sadness that might just touch you in your tender places if you're not careful. Sung with the utmost sincerity, the duos lyrics are sweet (but not cloying) and employ the vocabulary of natures ebb and flow, the morning sun, the twinkling stars, the rushing river, to tackle matters of the human heart and the universal struggles of daily life." --Rachel Sanders, EXCLAIM MAGAZINE

"The Ep's title track "Journey Home" is a proper Canadian folk tune, using Lake Ontario as the setting for a melancholic song about love, it's reminiscent of Joni Mitchell's music-down tempo and melodic, glazed with a tint of sorrow and a feeling of loss. On "Journey Home" Kyra's vocal performance is largely featured, along with string accompaniment. Her careful and flawless transition between chest and head voice and gentle pronunciation of each word make the songs nature inspired lyrics all the more poetic.." -- Elysse Cloma, GREY OWL POINT

"...The title track...is so gentle, pretty and unfussy, it's enough to produce waterworks in the most cold-hearted listener. A bright, clear piano line accompanies the pair's bright, clear voices. Tully's is low and kind, Kyra's high and sweet..." --Carla Gillis, NOW MAGAZINE

"Another heartfelt and varied harvest of songs by Skeleton Park's own Kyra and Tully. From song to song, from folk to pop to blues and back, their voices fuse, diverge, wander and reunite with moving sincerity."--Steven Heighton, AUTHOR

Kyra and Tully have appeared at a number of festivals including, North by North East; Canadian Music Week; Brampton Indie Arts Festival and Skeleton Park Arts Festival. Their music has been featured on TV, various Radio Programs, in newspapers, magazines, documentaries and a full length movie. They appear on various community compilation projects such as 'Artists for the Algonquin-Artists Against Uranium Mining' which included songs by Bruce Cockburn and Daniel Lanois.
